Kushog Lake

Area Indicator

Fishing

Originally, Kushog Lake was named Kakwakshebemahog Lake, the Ojibway word meaning 'long and narrow'. The tongue-twisting name was later changed to Kushog Lake, most likely for the benefit of English settlers in the area. However, the original description is most apt, as the lake is quite long and narrow.

Kushog Lake is divided into two different water bodies, the northern arm and the southern arm. The northern arm is dramatically deeper and has a maximum depth of over 30 metres (100 feet) compared to just 14 metres (46 feet) in the southern end. Because of this, lake trout tend to be found more regularly in the northern arm. Fishing success for lake trout is usually slow, although is best in the winter working jigs or spoons through the ice.

Lake trout are also quite active just after ice off when they are found closer to the surface. Anglers will find success by trolling silver or gold spoons or larger streamer type flies that imitate baitfish. For trolling, the Little Cleo or Diamond King are good bets, while fly fishers should try a grey and white streamer with some crystal flash.

In the summer, the lake trout go deep, and you will need a downrigger or lead core line to get to them. A baited lure with lots of action, like a Flatfish or Kwikfish, trolled just off the bottom will work best.

Anglers looking for consistent action on Kushog Lake are best to fish for its smallmouth bass. Fishing is fair for smallmouth for bass up to the 1.5 kg (3.5 lb) range. While smallmouth bass can be found throughout the lake, the southern portion of the lake does offer a little more weed structure for bass to hide in. Try casting spinners, and jigs along rock or weed structures. Fly anglers should try a darker coloured streamer such as a yellow brown leech or Woolly Bugger. The larger smallmouth are found in the deeper areas of this arm, as they prefer cooler water, and a fish finder will certainly help you find them.

Slot size and special ice fishing restrictions are in place on the lake to aid the fragile lake trout population.

Directions

North of the town of Minden, Highway 35 passes across the narrows at the northern end of Kushog Lake. Access is available near the highway crossing, as well as where the highway skirts the northern end of the lake. Another access point can be found via Buckslide Road at the Buck Slides Dam.

Facilities

A few resorts can be found on Kushog Lake, including privately run camping areas. All necessities and more can be found in the town of Minden to the south.

Other Options

Kabakwa Lake and the Welch Lakes are three lakes located near the northeast end of Kushog Lake. All three are accessible via 2wd roads. Kabakwa Lake is stocked periodically with lake trout and hosts a resident population of smallmouth bass. Welch Lake and Lower Welch Lake are both inhabited by smallmouth bass.
